Hangover The Top is the second album released by the Montpellier (South Of France) trio Marvin.

Recorded in December 2009 by Miguel Constantino and mastered by Jason Ward, this record features a progression towards more complex yet more accessible music. By using the Vocoder and different synthesizers, they have succeeded in creating a complex album touching on Hard Rock, Kraut Rock, Math Rock, Noise and Post Punk. Ten tracks total, ending with an unexpected Brian Eno cover.

Since Marvin released their first album in April 2007, they have done more than 300 concerts in France and Europe, and crossed paths with Devo, Trans am, Polysics, Qui, Black Mountain...

Marvin plans to tour Europe in April and May 2010 to promote their new album.
